

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTIONS

This chapter of the thesis based on the results of the findings and interpretation in Chapter IV. This chapter contains two parts, such as conclusion and suggestions.

A. Conclusion

In this study the main female characters each embody different forms of struggle for gender equality, reflecting the complexity of women's experiences in seeking intellectual freedom, self-actualization, and the right to define herself.

Greta Gerwig's work provides an in-depth look at women's struggle to achieve gender equality. Through its characters shows how each individual has a unique way of facing social challenges and forming their identity. From Jo who dares to go against the norm, to Meg who struggles with her traditional choices, each story reflects the complexity of the female experience. By exploring these themes, we can see how relevant the issue of gender equality is in the modern context, as well as the importance of providing space for women's voices in various aspects of life.

Furthermore, the study's result in the findings is related to the three types of woman struggle faced by the woman main characters, there are 40 quotes in total. there are 23 quotes showing Jo's struggles for gender equality that is 9 data to show her struggles to become an intellectual women, 7 data show her struggle to achieve self-actualization and 7 data to show her struggles to be herself meanwhile there are 5 quotes showing Meg's struggles for gender equality that is 1 datum to show her struggle to achieve self-actualization and 4 data to show her struggle to be herself, whereas there is 1 quote showing Beth's struggle for gender equality that is 1 datum to show her struggle to be herself, and there are 11 quotes showing Amy's struggles for gender equality that is 5 data to show her struggle to become an intellectual women, 3 data to show her struggles to achieve self-actualization and 3 data to show her struggles to be herself.

Finally, it can be concluded that the struggle for gender equality remain a significant issue in society. The main women characters in movie little women, such as Jo, Meg, Beth and Amy. Each live their own paths in life and assert the freedom to make choices. Their journeys describe the importance of challenging social norm and affirm that women deserve equality and the opportunity to determine their own destiny.

B. Suggestions

This research explains the struggle of the main character in the film Little Women which shows the women main character's struggle to achieve gender equality. The writer suggests that future research could dig deeper into the feminist themes in the movie and explore how societal expectations impact each character. For anyone wishing to analyze the movie, it is advisable to take a broader view and try a different approach, such as sociology or ecofeminism, to gain a new perspective by looking at how the film depicts women, researchers can better understand how the characters face their roles and challenges in this patriarchal system. The writer also hopes readers to provide input to improve this research and make it more useful for further research such as using are the objects to find struggles by women characters in movie or literary work.